

FIRE BLANKETS DISPOSAL

The information in this document is a statement from Norsk Gjenvinning AS, which is Norway's largest provider of recycling and environmental services in Norway, dated May 2nd 2022.

When asked about disposing used fire blankets, Norsk Gjenvinning AS has given the following statement:

«Used fire blankets are handled as residual waste at Norsk Gjenvinning AS facility in Larvik, Norway, as they do not contain hazardous waste or other substances. Furthermore, Norsk Gjenvinning produces fuel for Norcem in Brevik, Norway - and since the fire blankets do not contain hazardous waste or other substances this does not affect the production of fuel.»

Norsk Gjenvinning is informed about the use of our fire blankets for extinguishing both fires in fossil- and electric vehicles.

Bridgehill always recommends to air the fire blanket after use and before disposal.
